It has been shown that in the vast majority of cases this germ is transported mechanically in the bodies of sick hogs and on the feet of men and animals and birds. HOW THE RUSSIANS LOOK ON QUESTION

Passport Squabble As the Other Side Views It.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 11.—Nothing for American Jews is contained in the passport bill which has now been laid before the duma.

The Novoe Vremya ascribes the American agitation to electioneering It says the American claim for recog nition of the passports of American Jews in Russia is judicially and politi cally invalid. The paper expresses the belief that the Russo-American com mercial treaty is doomed because o the agitation. Russia, it says, is not indifferent to this, for although she would lose nothing economically by its abrogation, the logical development would be the exclusion from America of hundreds of thousands of Russian Jews who would stay in Russia to her detriment and America's advantage. The Jews in the United States, the Novoe Vremya declares, wish such exclusion, and that is the real motive for the present agitation. They are driving the American politicians with a pitiless whip.

Few Bodies Taken Out of Doomed Mine.

THERE IS A GLIMMER OF HOPE

A Bare Possibility Remains That in the Remote Workings of the Cross Mountain Mine in Tennessee That Was Wrecked by a Dust Explosion Saturday, a Half Dozen of the Old Miners May Be Found Alive.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 11.-To the ever-diligent rescue parties, composed of seasoned miners and less seasoned and more timid government experts with their helmets and oxygen tanks, the Cross Mountain mine has given up eight of its dead. From ten to fifteen other bodies have been definitely located. The rescuers are now confident that none of the eighty to one hundred entombed miners will be found alive, and eighty coffins have been sent from this city. However President Stephenson of the Knoxville Iron company, which operated the mine, expressed the opinion that in one of the uttermost chambers near the opening in the adjoining Thistle

THE FRENCH LICK EXPLOSION

It Is Said That Present Secretary of Iron Workers Had Made Threats at French Lick Previous to Explosion at Taggart's Hotel, and That in Consideration of Immunity He Is Willing to Tell Story to State.

Indianapolis, Dec. 11.-The rumor that H. S. Hockin has offered to tell all he knows to the grand jury in exchange for immunity from prosecution persists, even though District Attorney Miller, who has returned from Washington after a conference with he federal authorities regarding the dynamiting inquiry, refused to discuss it. There is no doubt that Hockin or some friend for him has made over tures to the government. Hockin suc ceeded John J. The affidavit declared that Hockin instigated the explosion.

Immediately following an attempted destruction of the new hotel building that Tom Taggart was having erected at French Lick, Detective Morgan of this city went to French Lick and began an investigation. After several days work Morgan became convinced that a man named Harry Underwood had placed the explosive in the buildng and that it was done because nonunion iron workers were being employed. It developed that shortly before the explosion, not more than two days, H. S. Purdue Short Course is Designed to Meet Needs of All Classes in Agriculture.

QUESTION IN MANY HOMES

Argue it Out With Dad in Few Weeks.

"Say, dad, can't you spare me for a few weeks, so that I can go to Purdue for the winter short course? Lots of other farmers are letting their sons go and I ought to have as good a chance as any of them."

This question and argument will be discussed in many Indiana homes during the next two or three weeks. The 1912 short course of eight weeks will begin January 15 and end March 8. Dean J. H. Skinner, of the Purdue school of agriculture, is making preparations for the reception of at least 250 students. The course is designed to meet the needs of all classes, from those who have just completed a preparatory education to the advanced college students, desirous of bettering themselves along lines of teaching ag ricultural methods.

Lectures and laboratory work com orise the actual work of the course, and this is all under the direction of men and women who have devoted years to the following of scientific methods in their particular lines of endeavor. The practical every-da problems of the farm and home are dealt with daily in the class-room and dairy and poultry methods.

Turkey's Mid-Europe Remnant

The only remnant of Turkey left in, one may say, mid-Europe is the island of Ada Kaleh, on the Danube. It still belongs to Turkey, but is under the protection of Austria, and is an important point, which, in eventualities, duid command the navigation of the river. The Island was once a strong fortress, and is still garrisoned by a detachment of Austro-Hungarian soldiers. who have "look-outs" at each point of vantage. From the gate of the strongly fortified bastion one can see the citadel, with its bazaars and primitive cafes flanking the narrow streets. The mosque is richly draped with valuable carpets, but otherwise is a very plain building. The sultan, to keep the island inhabited by Turkish people, sends as a gift each year a shipload of coffee, tobacco, sugar, sweets, and various other commodities and they have the privilege of selling their coffee and sugar at Orsova, a few miles distant on the Hungarian shore, duty free to the extent of one pound in weight.
